I Love You, Little Truck

David Miles & Stephanie Miles,
 Illustrated by Natasha Molins

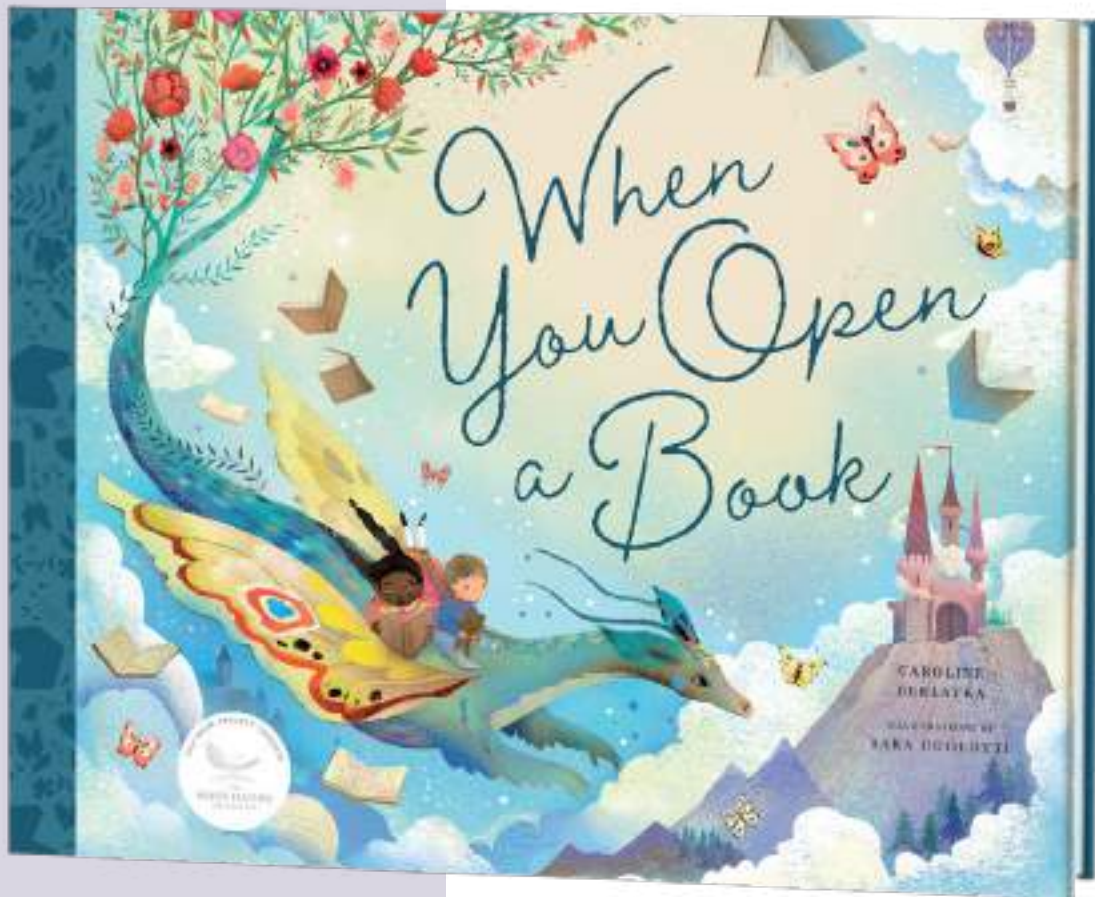

Sometimes kids—and little trucks—need to be reassured of a parent's love. In I Love You, Little Truck, Big Truck loves Little Truck with a full heart—but Little Truck can't help but wonder. "Little Truck smiled, then it sank to a frown. / 'But what about times I might let you down? / Like when I spill oil or get grease on the rugs. / Even then, will you give me your kisses and hugs?'" In a heartwarming exchange featuring favorite construction trucks, Big Truck shows how a parent's love overcomes oil spills, cement, and even the deepest of holes. Adorable illustrations from Natasha Mollins complement the simple, rhyming text to convey an endearing message that kids will want to hear—and feel—again and again.

Too Many Hugs

A BOOK ABOUT CONSENT

Yvonne Pearson, Illustrated by Maria Buart

Sticky hugs. Tight hugs. Smooching hugs. Too MANY hugs! Theo loves his family, but too many hugs is, well, too many.

In this adorable—but important—book on consent, Theo teaches his family about the need for respect and personal boundaries. After a day of too many hugs, he writes his five rules for hugging and puts them on the refrigerator. When Grandma comes in for a smacking, smooching hug, she sees the rules and stops. “How about a hug?” she asks. Theo can’t wait to say, “YES!”

Why does consent matter? Research shows that helping kids learn to take charge of their bodies and decide for themselves what is welcome (or unwelcome) touch is a critical step to empowering them against abuse. Asking—not demanding—a hug from a child teaches him that he matters as a person and that he is as deserving of respect as a grownup. Too Many Hugs is a funny, powerful way to get that life-changing lesson started!

The Girl and the Cathedral

THE STORY OF NOTRE DAME DE PARIS

Nic Jeter, Illustrated by Sara Ugolotti

On an island in the Seine, a little girl plants a garden—but not a garden of flowers. It will be a garden of people, she says: Paris. And in the center of that garden will stand its guardian, a grand cathedral carved from stone and roofed with light: the majestic Notre Dame de Paris.

Alas, the garden will change, as people must. The girl sees kings and revolutions, empires and democracies, wars and tragedies. There are the best of times, and there are the worst. Through it all, the light of Notre Dame keeps hope bright.

But when fire strikes Notre Dame itself, the little girl is grief stricken. It seems all light has gone out—until her beloved people discover what she has planted within them all along.

In the spirit of The Little Prince, The Girl and the Cathedral is a moving story about life, freedom, love, loss, and the glory of new beginnings. It is a story about Notre Dame, but much deeper, it is a story about all that Notre Dame stands for.

"This emotional and beautifully illustrated tale about Paris, the cathedral, and its people will make a great addition to any library." —

The Blessed Pomegranates

A. Helwa, Illustrated by Dasril Iqbal Al Faruqi

The leaves whisper it. The birds sing it. It is Ramadan, the holy season of giving! But Adam and Alyha can't help wondering: what is the real meaning of Ramadan? Fortunately, wise Grandma Essi knows just what to do. With ruby pomegranates picked from Grandma Essi's magnificent tree, the two grandchildren set off to visit their friends and neighbors, share their blessings, and discover, as Grandma Essi no doubt intended all along, to feel the spirit of the holiest month of the year. Written by internationally bestselling author of Secrets of Divine Love, A. Helwa, and illustrated by Dasril Iqbal Al Faruqi, The Blessed Pomegranates is a timeless story to teach kids gratitude, generosity, and the real meaning behind Ramadan.

Adam and Alyha were lying under a magnificent pomegranate tree. Its branches reached high above, its green leaves dancing like butterfly wings under the Ramadan sun.

Softly, it seemed to whisper, it is the holy time of giving.

Best was Uncle Shakir. "As-salamu 'alayhim, Uncle Shakir!" said Adam. "We brought you some pomegranates we picked from Grandma Essi's big tree."

"We 'alayhim as-salam, Adam," said Uncle Shakir. "I know just the thing to do with those." He dropped some pomegranates in a pot.

plunk. plunk. plopl!

"Ramadan Karim," said Grandma Essi.

... and gazed. There was dates and walnuts, olive bread and labneh, sumous and chicken soup, the best of all.

there were pomegranates everywhere!

Some pomegranates were ripe and ready to eat, just the way Adam liked them. Some were made into pomegranate syrup, Uncle Shakir's specialty. There was pomegranate juice from Mrs. Ines, and last, some pomegranates came from Miss and Emi. "Subhanallah," Adam and Alyha exclaimed. "You did know what to do with our gift!"
